

All About Cheetahs

By Brielle

Imagine cuddling a soft baby cheetah. Well, they aren't soft. Only their spots are.

Cheetahs have long legs.
Cheetahs are 7 feet long. Their black spots protect their eyes from the sun. They can be yellow or tan with black spots.

The fur on their spots is soft, but the rest of their fur is thick and scratchy. They have different patterns of spots. Their spots help them blend into the grass.

They live in Africa, Asia, or on Savannas. They can run 70 miles an hour. They are fast.

One of their main foods are antelope. They hunt during the day.

They chirp to their cubs and they can live 10 to 12 years. The female cheetah gives birth to 3 to 5 cubs.

I hope you thought that the cheetah was as interesting as I did!
